JOINT RELEASE BY PRESENTERS ESPLANADE AND URBAN REDEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY, WITH 'LIVE' SHOW ORGANISER MEDIACORP TV CHANNEL 5

Marina Bay SINGAPORE Countdown 08/09

Binding people together in celebration of the New Year

- 10,000 wishing spheres to be set afloat in Marina Bay
- First ever MediaCorp Countdown show at Marina Bay

SINGAPORE, 29 December 2008 – As the year draws to a close, the Marina Bay SINGAPORE Countdown 08/09 will bring people from all walks of life together to celebrate and collectively express their hopes and wishes for the year ahead. This New Year's Eve, the event takes on even greater significance as a rallying point for Singaporeans to gather together to contemplate the year past and greet the New Year with anticipation and hope.

Jointly presented by Esplanade and the Urban Redevelopment Authority (URA), the development agency for Marina Bay, the Countdown event is into its fourth year and has become a unique New Year's Eve tradition for Singapore, offering an opportunity for Singaporeans around the world to celebrate and for the community to bond together.

MediaCorp celebrates with the nation

For the very first time, as a new media partner for the event, MediaCorp TV Channel 5 will be staging a 'live' Countdown show at Marina Bay.

Esplanade and URA present a countdown tradition unique to Singapore

Last year, over 250,000 people came down to Marina Bay with their family and friends and witnessed the lighting up of 5,000 spheres carrying the wishes of the community for the year ahead. This year, twice as many people are expected to pen their wishes on 10,000 spheres which will be installed in the Bay, a record number for the event. The installation of the spheres began in mid-November and will be completed by 31 December 2008. The spheres will be specially lit as part of a visual arts presentation that will set the entire Bay aglow.

At the stroke of midnight a breathtaking display of fireworks, choreographed to a special composition by Cultural Medallion winner, musician and composer Iskandar Ismail, will welcome in the New Year in a powerful and poignant celebration. Iskandar's work will be broadcast 'live' on MediaCorp radio stations Lush 99.5FM and Y.E.S. 93.3FM, so members of the public can tune in and witness the fireworks in tandem with the music, in perfect synchronisation.

Explaining how the Marina Bay SINGAPORE Countdown is unlike any other countdown event, Mrs Cheong Koon Hean, CEO, URA, said: "It is special in that it brings together people from all walks of life to gather here at Marina Bay to usher in the new year with hopes and wishes for future possibilities. It is Singapore's very own countdown event with a heart. Especially in times like these, I hope all of us remain in good heart and look forward to brighter times ahead."

Increased community involvement

Commenting on the increased community involvement this year, Benson Puah, CEO, Esplanade, said: "This has been a challenging year for Singaporeans and the outlook for the next year seems no better. It is especially in trying times like these that the Marina Bay SINGAPORE Countdown can unite our community, to give us a chance to gather and collectively hope for a better year ahead. I am especially heartened by the increase in community involvement this year, to see more reaching out to those less able than themselves.”

This year, 20 community groups will reach out to their members to encourage them to pen their wishes on the spheres, almost double the 12 groups that took part last year. Members of the People’s Association Youth Movement (PAYM), who will be participating for the first time in this event, will bring the spheres to eight community clubs around Singapore. Community groups like the Chinese Development Assistance Council (CDAC), the Eurasian Association, the Singapore Indian Development Association (SINDA) and Yayasan Mendaki will also continue to support the event as will members from the SOKA Association, whose members will take to the streets on 20 December, with volunteers roving along Orchard Road, Ang Mo Kio and Tampines to encourage people to pen their wishes on the spheres. Their volunteers will also work with three voluntary welfare organisations – Dover Park Hospice, HCA Hospice Care and Society for the Physically Disabled – so their residents can pen their wishes on the spheres.

This year an additional 22 schools will join in by adopting spheres for their students and teachers to pen their wishes on, bringing the total number of schools involved to 52. Students from Hwa Chong Institution, Ngee Ann Polytechnic and Nanyang Technological University have also worked with different community and voluntary welfare organisations such as Child’s Aid Society, Fei Yue Student Care and Riding for the Disabled Association, from 12 November to 9 December, to allow these communities to pen their wishes on the spheres.

The event this year is also supported by four community libraries, at which wishing stations will be set up. Members of the public who want to play a part in the event can also pen their wishes at wishing stations set up in various shopping centres, the Singapore Visitor’s Centre at Orchard and the Concourse and waterfront at Esplanade Theatres. (More details on the wishing stations can be found below)
