About St. Joseph's Institution Symphonic Band

The St. Joseph's Institution Symphonic Band (SJISB) is a venerable institution, tracing its roots back to a bugle and fife band in 1957. Evolving into a military band by 1963 and transforming into a symphonic band in 2020, the SJISB stands as one of Singapore's earliest and most distinguished musical ensembles.

The SJISB is a large family of passionate musicians who work together to create mellifluous music by devoting themselves to master their own instruments and complement each other to create soul-stirring melodies in unison.

The band performs for school programmes as well as external events and has won several accolades along the way. In the last Singapore Youth Festival, they were awarded double distinctions for the two teams they had sent. In 2023, they were selected to perform in the Limelight series at Esplanade.
